Europe catches its breath

The past couple of years have seen unprecedented turbulence in European gas and LNG markets. The loss of Russian pipeline gas supplies forced European companies out into global gas markets seeking short- and long-term supplies amid the most volatile market in history.

A couple of warm winters and falling prices have created an air of normalcy but the long-term questions about global supply, European demand and the impact of the ill-advised US pause on LNG project permits remain.

Join Poten's senior international analysts for a lively discussion on the prospects for energy security in Europe, global supply and demand fundamentals and the latest insights on contracts and LNG markets.

Meet the team

Jason Feer

Global Head of Business Intelligence, Poten & Partners

Jason Feer is the Global Head of Business Intelligence at Poten & Partners. Prior to joining Poten in 2014, Jason served as COO Americas for Argus Media based in Houston from 2011. Between 2003 and 2011, he was the head of Asia Pacific at Argus Media, where he oversaw all price reporting and led the development of new products focused on petroleum, LNG, LPG, coal, base oils, biofuels and other commodities. With more than 30 years of experience in global energy markets, Jason has worked in Asia, Latin America, Europe and the US. His specialties include markets, project development and the politics of oil. He is a frequent commentator on oil affairs and has appeared on CNBC, the BBC, CNN and other television and media outlets.

Melanie Lovatt

Financial Advisor, Poten & Partners

In addition to her role as financial advisor for the Business Intelligence division of Poten & Partners, Melanie is Managing Editor of the company's LNG Finance in World Markets monthly research report. Since 2014 she has also been the team leader on the quarterly LNG Finance in World Markets report. She analyses liquefaction, regasification, and LNG shipping finance, focusing on sources of funding, how they are structured, and the relationship between LNG contracts and finance. She has given presentations at industry conferences on LNG finance and was a contributing author to the Understanding Natural Gas and LNG Options handbook funded by US government-led partnership Power Africa. Prior to joining Poten in 2014, Melanie was Editor at Middle East Economic Survey from September 2012. This followed roles at MEES as Senior Editor and Finance Editor from 2002. Before that Melanie worked at newswire BridgeNews in New York as senior energy correspondent and has almost 30 years of experience in global commodities markets. She has a Bachelor of Science degree in Geology from the University of Hull in the UK.
